

Smilacina racemosa

Maianthemum racemosum

False Solomon's Seal

Liliaceae

Exposure Shade

Water Occasional water

Form Perennial

Height 2 feet

Flower color White

Bloom time Spring

False Solomon's Seal is an elegant addition to a woodland garden or a shaded container collection. The branched clusters of starry white flowers brighten the shade in early spring and are fragrant. Bright red berries follow in fall. The foliage dies down in winter to reappear in spring.

Habitat Moist woodland